SMASH-UP AT BOROUGH TRAP

Son of C. O. Yohe Caught by Automobile at Sharp Corner where View of Approaching Vehicle is Completely Hidden.

Gettysburg's dangerous highway trap at the corner of Springs avenue and Seminary Ridge was the scene of another accident Sunday evening when Elmer Yohe, a son of Charles O. Yohe, of near town, was run down by an automobile and painfully bruised. The names of those in the car are not known.

Young Yohe was riding a bicycle on West Confederate avenue and had started for his home at the Mizell farm along the State Road north east of Gettysburg. He approached the dangerous corner at the home of Dr. M. Coover and did not hear the approaching automobile which was going out from town. Witnesses say that the car was close to the left side of the road and that the driver did not blow his horn as he approached the corner. The boy, who is somewhat deaf, also failed to hear any warning.

The car and wheel came together right at the curve, young Yohe being dragged across the road and his bicycle being completely ruined. The driver of the car stopped as quickly as possible and gave attention to the victim's bruises. As he was dragged across the road his shirt was rolled up until much of his back was exposed to the rough surface of the macadam and he was very painfully scratched. After some little time he felt sufficiently recovered from the shock to be taken to his home and the services of a physician were not required.

The scene of Sunday evening's mishap witnessed a more serious accident several years ago when two large cars met in a head-on collision and both were severely damaged. Scarcely a week passes that the Seminary Ridge residents do not see some narrow escape at this particular corner, automobilists frequently failing to sound a warning as they near the dangerous spot and those going out from town driving close to the left hand side of the road which happens to be in better condition than the right. Cars coming from either direction are entirely hidden from view of approaching machines and it has often been commented upon as surprising that many fatal smash-ups have not occurred at the place.

HAMILTON—PETERS

Mr. Hamilton and Miss Peters Married at Reformed Parsonage.

Saturday evening at eight o'clock Dr. T. J. Barkley, at the Reformed parsonage, married Miss Jennie Elizabeth Peters and Warren E. Hamilton. The bride is a daughter of Francis Peters, of Waynesboro, and the groom is a son of J. S. Hamilton, of Delta, York County.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left on Sunday for Red Lion where they will make their home. Mr. Hamilton has been employed for some time at the Reaser furniture factory as a finisher.

MUCH DISCUSSION FOLLOWS DIXON

Frank Dixon's Two Lectures at Chautauqua Please and Displease. Gettysburg Audiences View his Theories with Varying Feelings.

Frank Dixon, the lecturer at the Chautauqua Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, was announced as a man whose message would cause people to think and talk. The prophecy has been fulfilled.

Both times that he spoke he made numerous statements that were contrary to the beliefs of many of his hearers, tearing down some of the country's most revered institutions, and drawing a dark picture of conditions as he now sees them to exist. Mr. Dixon is an attractive speaker and he entertained his audience for over an hour each time. Afterward they talked.

The lecturer gained numerous adherents in Gettysburg who believe him to see remedies which will be brought into play within the next ten years. He spoke to others—not friends of his theories—who term him "the typical popular lecturer endeavoring to achieve further popularity by spectacular statements."

Saturday evening Mr. Dixon spoke for eighty minutes on "An Outgrown Constitution" and advocated radical changes in the composition of our Senate and House of Representatives while the Supreme Court came in for its share of censure. Sunday afternoon his subject was "The Square Deal" and he took occasion to flay the railroads, courts of justice and affairs in general until one could well wonder just why Mr. Dixon remained a citizen of a nation whose conditions were so unhappy.

It was promised that Mr. Dixon would make Chautauqua fans ponder over conditions. They are doing their pondering aloud with their fellows to hear and answer. Comment both favorable and unfavorable has followed the Southerner's appearance here and the evident intention of the Chautauqua Association in placing Mr. Dixon on their program has filled its purpose.

The Tyrolean Alpine Singers were among the attractions on Saturday, and with their sweet singing and yodling, renewed the warm place in the affections of Gettysburg's people which they earned upon the occasion of their first visit here some years ago. They appeared in native garb on Saturday and were kind enough to give a half hour's sacred concert Sunday afternoon. The rendition of familiar American songs and hymns was most interesting while their own native songs and yodles showed their talent to best advantage.

A large attendance was present at all of the services on Sunday. At half past nine in the morning Prof. C. F. Sanders conducted the union Sunday School service and an hour later the Lutheran summer assembly in session here. The sermon, an earnest and forceful discourse, was preached by Rev. W. H. Feldman, pastor of the Church of Our Savior, New York City. Sunday afternoon's service consisted of the concert by the Alpine Singers and Mr. Dixon's lecture. In the evening the Chautauqua Chorus sang for a half hour in a delightful sacred song service and the sermon was preached by Rev. G. H. Turner, the platform superintendent.

Chautauqua Notes

Mr. Dixon was on the program for a sermon Sunday afternoon. Announcement was made Sunday afternoon that $100 would complete the amount necessary to meet this year's obligations. Collections taken afternoon and evening amounted to $40.00. The small deficit this year so early in the week is regarded by the local committee as an indication of the growing favor in which the Chautauqua movement is held by the people of Gettysburg and Adams County.

We wonder if the Chautauqua Association of Pennsylvania approves of everything which Mr. Dixon says in his lectures. With all the country's faults he claims it is still the best in the world.

The Chautauqua Chorus fully sustained its reputation on Sunday and, under the leadership of Mr. Taylor, was a great factor in the success of the day's services. Our local musical talent has always been a credit to the town.

Frank Dixon's artificial mannerisms do not add to the attractiveness of his lectures.

COUNTY PEOPLE TAKEN BY DEATH

Alexander D. Taylor Died Sunday at his Home Near Arendtsville. Paul D. Weigle Died as Result of Blood Poisoning.

ALEXANDER D. TAYLOR
Alexander D. Taylor, a prominent resident of the county, died on Sunday morning at half past nine o'clock at his home near Arendtsville after an illness of some weeks. He was aged 76 years.

Mr. Taylor was well known throughout the upper end of the county and in Gettysburg. He spent his life at farming and also engaged in trucking and in the nursery business. He told frequently the interesting story of the Confederates' attempt to get the horses at the home farm on which he lived at the time of the Civil War. He and other members of the family were chased several times and were targets for the bullets of the Southerners but managed to get away and save the horses.

Mr. Taylor was twice married, first to Miss Sarah Wolf. Three children, born to this marriage, are living, David Taylor, of Topeka, Kansas; Calvin Taylor, of Butler township; and Miss Bertha Taylor at home. His second wife was Mrs. Lizzie Steinhour and she survives together with a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Bushey, of Arendtsville. He leaves three brothers and four sisters, Louis Taylor, Joseph Taylor, Mrs. Jimma Brooks, Mrs. Isabelle Hummer, Mrs. Elenora Myers and Mrs. Elvina Jackson, all of Topeka, Kansas; and Samuel Taylor, of Colorado.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at his late residence. Interment in the cemetery at Arendtsville.

FRANCIS P. SMALL

Francis P. Small formerly of McSherrytown, died in Cumberland township Saturday morning. He was aged 69 years, 8 months and 11 days.

He was a son of the late John Small and wife, of McSherrytown. He was married to Miss Mary J. Hombach, a daughter of the late Dr. William Hombach, of McSherrytown. She died about four years ago.

Mr. Small leaves one daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Myers, of Midway; a brother, John Small, of McSherrytown, and two sisters, Jane Small, of Edgemoor, and Mrs. William Poist, of McSherrytown; also seven grandchildren.

Funeral to-day; requiem high mass in St. Mary's church, McSherrytown, at 9 a. m., Rev. L. Aug. Reutter officiating. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

PAUL D. WEIGLE

Paul D. Weigle died at the home of his father, W. C. Weigle, in Tyrone township, on Saturday after a few days' illness from blood poisoning, aged 14 years. He leaves his father and mother and the following brothers and sisters, Fremont, Harrison, Walter, Edith and Ruth Weigle, Mrs. John C. Bream, Mrs. Milton Bream and Mrs. George Meckley.

Funeral Wednesday morning meeting at the house at 9 o'clock. Services will be held in the Lutheran church, Biglerville. Interment in Centreville cemetery.

Relatives and friends will please accept this as an invitation to attend the funeral services without further notice.

MARINES HERE

Thirty Officers from Marine School now here.

The young officers from the Marine School at Norfolk, Virginia, arrived here Saturday evening for a three weeks' course of study in which map sketching will play an important part. COUNTY HUNTERS WANT LICENSES

Adams County Nimrods with Others in the State Asking about their Licenses for this Year. Ready Latter Part of Month.

Under the new gunners' license law sportsmen in Adams County and other parts of the State are writing to the State Game Commission asking Secretary Kalbfus where they can get their licenses and tags and how soon they will be ready.

There seems to be an impression that the licenses and tags are issued by the State Game Commission, but that is incorrect. The licenses and tags are furnished by the State to county treasurers and by the latter supplied to the hunters. The State Game Commission takes in no money for licenses when they are issued, but the cash is collected by the county treasurer.

The licenses and tags will not be ready for distribution before the latter part of August, but in the meantime there will be no hunting of any account.

The plover season opened on July 15, but will not last long, as there are few birds and they migrate soon. Gunners who go out now will not be molested, and they need have no fear of arrest, unless they are killing game out of season.

COUNTY PICNIC

Crowd not so Large as in Other Years but All Had a Good Time.

Several hundred Adams County people enjoyed the annual picnic at Mt. Holly Springs on Saturday. The park is attractive as ever and the various amusements, including bathing and boating, were enjoyed all day long. Many of the people went in to Carlisle for an hour or two and a number saw a good fourteen inning game of base ball between Carlisle and York, resulting 4 to 3 in favor of the former. Dancing was enjoyed afternoon and evening and the Biglerville Band gave several concerts, also parading in Carlisle during the day. The excursion was only about half as large as in other years. The special train reached Gettysburg on its return about ten o'clock.

PARSONAGE RAIDED

York Springs Pastor and Wife Remembered by Parishioners.

When Rev. Luther W. McGarvey and family, of York Springs, returned from a drive one evening recently they found the parsonage in possession of about seventy five friends who had come, as a surprise to Mrs. McGarvey, to help celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary. Music was furnished by Mrs. Harvey Neely with their Victrola, and all enjoyed the bountiful refreshments the committee had provided.

PENN GROVE CAMP

Big Crowd at Penn Grove Camp on Closing Day.

A record crowd attending the sixteenth annual sessions of the Penn Grove Assembly were brought to an appropriate close Sunday. Most of the campers, however, will stay at the camp for a few more days. All services Sunday in the tabernacle were special and were of more than ordinary interest. Evangelist Arpe continued his successful work, and preached two inspiring sermons, in the morning at 10 o'clock and in the evening at 7 o'clock.

Those Good Old Times.

Bobby's grandfather often referred to the good old days when such commodities as meat, vegetables, fruit, etc., were grown and prepared at home. One day at dinner the mince pie was praised. 19 KILLED BY MINE EXPLOSIONS

Dynamite Blows Up and Flames
Set Off Gas Pocket.

19 INJURED; SOME FATALLY

First Rescuers Were Caught In Second
Explosion and Several Were Killed and Injured—Two Victims Entombed.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 4.—Nineteen men are dead and as many more are injured seriously, some of them fatally, as the result of explosions in the East Brookside colliery of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, near Tower City.

The first accident was caused by two tons of dynamite used in driving a new tunnel exploding prematurely. With a tremendous roar the massive mine pillars 1800 feet below the ground were shattered.

The dead are:
Daniel M. Ginley, fire boss, Tower City.

Henry Murphy, fire boss, Tower City.

John Farrell, foreman, Tower City.
Howard Hand, laborer, Muir.
Harry Hand, miner, Muir.

Jacob Kopenhaver, Reinterton, shaft man.

Thomas Behny, miner, Reinterton.

John Endise.

Carroll Camant.

Victor Seane.

Cevedia Groziano.

Five unidentified Italian workmen.

Two have not been recovered, and there is no hope of their being taken out alive. They are: Daniel Farley, fire boss, Tower City, and John Fessler, Tower City.

A rescue party started into the mine immediately, and they had hardly been lowered into the shaft when the second explosion followed. This was caused by the flames reaching a pocket of gas. In the second disaster Superintendent John Lorenz and Harry Schoeffstall, the fire boss, who led the rescuing party, were overcome.

For five minutes the bottom of the mine, which is reached by the deepest shaft in the anthracite coal region, was like a furnace, with all the miners within reach of the flames lying prostrate on their faces to avoid the breathing in of the fumes. The terrible heat, however, either scorched the life out of most of them or the concussion and flying rocks killed them.

A second rescue force was then formed, and they got the bodies of Superintendent Lorenz and Schoeffstall, besides those of three miners.

Lorenz was brought to the Pottsville hospital, and it is said he may recover. Schoeffstall, however, is fatally injured. The three miners revived almost as soon as they reached the surface.

The explosion set fire to the mine and the rescuing force worked in helmets containing stored oxygen.

Millions of dollars worth of the finest red ash coal in the anthracite region was threatened by the fire, and the officials of the Reading company, after doing all they could for the killed and injured, rushed its "fire car" to the scene and such good work was done that danger of the fire spreading is past.

The Brookside colliery has fewer foreign employees than any other coal operation in the county. Many are the sons of nearby farmers, and frenzied farmers and their wives from many miles around crowded around the mine mouth after the explosion.

Nine of the bodies of the dead were so scorched as to be unrecognizable, and the only way to ascertain their names will be from the records of those who went to work and did not return.

The driving of the tunnel where the fatal accident occurred was under the direction of private contractors, Portland Bros., and most of the employees killed were working for these contractors. Comparatively few employees of the Reading company were killed.

Most of the dead were married, and the explosion leaves forty orphans, nearly all of whom were dependent on their father for support.

THREE CAMPERS DROWN

Boat Filled With Water and Victims Could Not Swim.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—Three members of a camping party on their way back to camp along the Conodoguinet creek, near this city, were drowned by the filling of their boat in a deep part of the creek.

Frank Hartz, Lewis Stapf, Addison H. Landis and John Hood were in the boat and Hood was the only one who could swim. He saved his life with difficulty in the cold water of the creek which is fed with numerous springs. The others sank with the boat.

Lightning Dives Down Mine to Kill.

YUAN SHIH KAI.
Adherents of China's President
Want Him to Found Dynasty.

President Yuan Shih Kai's adherents express much elation over the successes gained by the loyal armies in the present rebellion and advocate the introduction of a dictatorial form of government. It is said that they hope for the ultimate establishment of a Yuan dynasty, under which they would share in the spoils of office. They contend that any compromise at the present time would place China in a chronic condition of revolution, which, they argue, would be most dangerous owing to the territorial aspirations of Russia and Japan.

SLAP BROKE WIRE THAT HELD BROKEN NECK

Remarkable Operation Revealed
by Playful Tap.

Chester, Pa., Aug. 4.—Uriah Washburn, the watchman of the Keystone Type Foundry here, is in the Chester hospital, with his life despaired of, because James Wilson slapped him on the back and broke his neck.

Once before Washburn had his neck broken, but was sutured together with silver wire and no one ever knew that the accident had happened. For years he has gone about his work, which has been of the lightest kind, but the operation that was performed had been so well done that to all intents and purposes the watchman was a perfectly normal person.

When Wilson slapped him on the back Washburn fell to the ground unconscious and it was thought that he was dead. After he was taken to the hospital and it was found that he was alive but paralyzed, an X-ray was taken, and then for the first time it was learned that his neck had been broken at some previous time.

His relatives were sent for, and they admitted that five years ago Washburn fell from an eight-story building and broke his neck. It was sutured with silver wire and the broken portions of the vertebrae were brought together and his neck held together by this slender cord.

At the hospital now they say they may be able to perform a similar operation again. They are going to try it, and if the patient's condition warrants it the surgeons will operate upon Washburn again in the hope of sewing his neck to his spine for the second time in order to save his life.

MAN SHOT IN QUARREL

Woman Disappears and Police Charge Companion With Crime.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 4.—Edward Engle, thirty-five years old, was probably fatally shot at Luzerne in a quarrel over a woman.

Engle was shot from behind, the bullet penetrating a lung, and the doctors said he had but a few hours to live.

Engle, William Lloyd and Mike Lipko were in a building known as the "Iron Clad" with Jennie Evans. The members of the party were drinking heavily. The men quarreled over the woman and a revolver was drawn and a shot fired.

Chief of Police Killen says Lipko and the woman were standing in front of Engle and Lloyd was behind. The police charge Lloyd with the crime. Following the shooting the woman disappeared. Lloyd and Lipko have been held without bail.

President Frees Aged Man.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Compassion or a feeble and desperately ill prisoner, seventy years old, caused President Wilson to commute to expire at once the four months' sentence of Ynocente Rosas, convicted at Tucson, Ariz., of smuggling three and one-half quarts of mesal from Mexico to the United States. He was released by telegraph.

Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—A mother, driven insane by worrying over the serious illness of one of her children, cut the throats of three of her children and then drew the knife across her own throat.

The woman and one of the children were dead when neighbors and a policeman forced their way into the house. Another child, a seven-year-old boy, died a few hours after he was taken to the West Philadelphia Homeopathic hospital. Another is dying there.

The dead are: Mrs. Alice Brogan, 6147 Callowhill street; her three-year-old son, Thomas, and her seven-year-old son, Victor. The dying child is Mary.

Joseph, aged fifteen years, and Gertrude, two years old, were all that escaped from the knife which the woman had wielded so terribly.

Mrs. David Henry, of 6135 Westminister avenue, when passing the house in which the Brogans lived, heard a moan, and upon investigation found Mary Brogan lying on the porch with her throat cut, but still alive.

The child said that the mother had cut her throat. Mrs. Henry called a policeman, who entered the house and found Baby Thomas lying in the parlor dead, with his throat cut.

One of the children, a boy, had locked himself into an upper room in order to escape the butchery. When the policemen arrived they broke down the door where the boy was, finding the little fellow on his knees, praying that they save him from his mother.

Policemen sent the injured to the hospital. Neighbors of the Brogan family said that the mother had shown symptoms of mental derangement for several days past, owing to the illness of the child.

The father of the children returned home and found a great crowd in front of his house and the door guarded by police. He immediately brushed aside all who were in his way and dashed into the house.

When he appeared a few minutes later he was crazed by the evidence of the tragedy. Fearing that he would do himself some harm the police took him into custody and lodged him in the Sixteenth district station house. When he arrived there it required the combined efforts of seven men to hold him in check.

According to Mrs. D. Henry, of 6135 Westminister avenue, Mrs. Brogan had been talking to her shortly before the murders are supposed to have taken place. Mrs. Henry asserts that the mother apparently was in good spirits and was making plans for a vacation she intended spending near Allentown with her children.

John Brogan, Jr., another son, aged twelve years, is in the Homeopathic hospital suffering with pneumonia. It is thought that grief over his condition may have prompted the mother's rash deeds.

CHEATS DEATH ON TRESTLE

Engineer Climbs Speeding Engine and Grabs Tot In Its Path.

Clarkburg, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Hubert L. McHenry, an engineer on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, saved the life of Wilson Allen, five years old, in the center of a sixty-foot trestle near this city.

The engineer had just made a flying switch with his engine. As soon as he saw the boy he climbed over the coal pit of the locomotive, which was "backing" at a fast rate of speed, and by hanging on the rear end of the tender picked up young Allen in one arm.

The boy remained very cool when he saw the fast coming engine and held up his arms to McHenry as the locomotive bore down upon him.

GOAT EATS PROBE RECORDS

Senator Catlin's Pet Devours the Papers and Dies.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 4.—All the duplicate records of proceedings of the senatorial investigation of official affairs in Philadelphia, conducted by the committee of which Senator Catlin was chairman, were destroyed when Senator Catlin's pet goat entered the warehouse where the papers were stored and ate them.

The dose was too much for the goat, which died shortly afterward. The senator regretted very much the demise of the goat.

Sleepwalker Falls and Dies.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 4.—While walking in his sleep, Richard Brooks, aged fifty-nine years, fell down a flight of steps and was almost instantly killed. Just eighteen months ago Warren Pierman, an uncle of Brooks', fell down the same steps and died about a week later of his injuries.

Find Man's Body In River.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 4.—The body of an unidentified man was found in the Delaware river within the city limits. The body is probably that of a tramp.

The Parson of Cinnamon Gulch

By WILLIAM SINGLETON

It was Sunday in the mining camp on Cinnamon gulch. But the day was not being respected as in civilized communities.

However, word had been received from the Rev. Arthur Dixon that he had been sent out by a society to start the people on a different course. He was coming among them to remain as long as necessary, which meant to build a place of worship.

About 10 o'clock on this Sunday morning a man came up the gulch whose appearance did not seem to indicate that he was especially fitted for the work in hand. His face was red, he wore a stubble beard, and his apparel was by no means clerical. Indeed, it was the ordinary costume of the country—sombbrero, flannel shirt and trousers tucked in his boots. Taking a position in the center of the cabin, he said in a loud voice:

"Friends, I have come among you to eject Satan from your midst. The sight I see on this Sabbath mornin' is one to appall the heart. Instead of washin' up and puttin' on your best clothes for meetin', instead of mothers brushin' the children's hair and puttin' clean aprons on 'em for Sunday school, some of you are workin', some playin' cards, while the women and children are doin' whatever they take a notion to do."

The stranger paused, and the miners who had been gathering about him while he was speaking wondered. They had expected a sleek looking, clean shaven gentleman in clerical dress, who would talk to them in a soft, persuasive voice. This man was rough and uncouth—indeed, nowise superior to themselves. However, it is questionable if this very ruggedness did not incite them to receive him more favorably than one more refined.

"I reckon," resumed the newcomer, "that you've been advised of my bein' sent out to convert this camp. I'm the Rev. Arthur Dixon, and I'm purty well used to such as you. You thought you was goin' to git a smooth talkin' gent with molasses candy hair and mild blue eyes. The society ain't sendin' that kind of men round to do their work, or, rather, the Lord's work. Their kind is sent to places where there's been some sort o' cultivation."

"What I'm goin' to do is tussle with the devil and throw him out, just as when a man's goin' to plant he gits rid o' the stumps and weeds and all that. Them fancy parsons wouldn't be no good for that. Their work comes in when the seed's planted and springin' up. When one o' them fellers comes yere I goes on to another place where there's no cleanin'."

By this time the whole camp—men, women and children, though there were few women and fewer children—were standing in front of the parson, gazing at him. To one or two who found room in his rear he said savagely:

"You galsots come forward where I kin see you. That's one o' Satan's best dodges—to git in a feller's rear and take him from behind."

Those addressed came forward.

"Now, I want you people to understand," the parson continued, "that the first thing needed in bringin' about a new deal is that when you get together for purposes o' worship you do it with humility. There's no humility in a six shooter nor in a knife. I want every one of you that has weapons on you to take 'em up there"—pointing to an open space between trees—"and leave 'em there durin' these yere religious ceremonies."

The speaker paused, and a number of the men went to the spot he indicated and then threw down their weapons. When he was satisfied that all the arms were where he had ordered them deposited he said that the first thing to do in the premises was to build some sort of place where they could meet for religious worship. Then he nominated one of the men to pass around the hat for contributions.

While the collection was being taken up a young man of a different type came into the camp, approaching the parson from the rear. When he caught sight of the speaker he opened his eyes. He was especially interested in his remarks made from time to time exhorting the miners to contribute liberally.

The collector, having gone the rounds, took the hat to the parson, who emptied the contribution into his pockets, then, drawing a revolver from each boot, covered the assembly.

"Stand where you are," he said, "for I'll put a hole in any one that moves! Any man leavin' for them weapons won't get more'n a yard!"

He began moving away from the congregation, keeping his face toward them, and backed right into the man who had just come upon the scene. Feeling a pair of arms clasp him about his body, he wriggled to get away, but to no purpose. Presently one of the congregation, taking advantage of the diversion, jumped in and grasped the weapons. That ended the dispute. The so called parson was downed and securely bound.

The young man who had turned the tables was the real Arthur Dixon. The man who had personated him had met him and learned of his purpose. Hurrying on ahead of him, he had hoped to play his game and get away with the plunder before his arrival.

The real Dixon in saving the miners from robbery acquired a support that enabled him to do a great work. He revolutionized the camp.

TEACHERS ELECTED

Liberty Township School Board Elects
Teachers for Coming Year.

The Liberty township school directors elected the following teachers Saturday afternoon, Liberty Hall, Charles Carbaugh; Oak Grove, Joseph Cool; Tract, Bernadette Kemper; Grayson, Edna E. Sites; Miney Creek, Grace Carbaugh; Valley, Miss Fisher.

Great Poet Fast Worker.

Byron worked fast. He once told a publisher that he was like a tiger, and if he missed his first spring went "grumbling back to his lair." Many of his works were written at fever heat when the first spring did not miss. "The Corsair" occupied ten days, and two rainy days at Ouchy were sufficient to produce the "Prisoner of Chillon." The "Bride of Abydos," though revised afterward, was at first the work of only four nights, and most of his poems, in fact, were impromptus.

Where the Exercises Came In.

Even doctors are not always literal in their prescriptions. "You must take exercise," said the doctor to a patient. "The motor car in a case like yours gives the best exercise that—" "But I cannot afford a car on insurance pay," the patient growled. "Don't buy one, just dodge 'em!" said the doctor.

FIGHTING THE DREADED FLY

Housekeeper May Do Much Toward Getting Rid of This Deadly Menace to Human Life.

It has been demonstrated by physicians and other experts that the common house fly carries typhoid germs. Therefore, it is necessary that great care be taken not to breed them.

The old adage "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" may be applied especially to flies, for measures to prevent their coming can be used more effectively than methods for destroying them after they arrive.

The housekeeper should insist that not a drop of slop of any kind be thrown about the door, and that all sink-drains and cess pools be securely covered and that no open slop pails be allowed to stand near the house, inviting a congregation of these summer pests.

Owners of country homes sometimes forget that the manure pile is a menace to the health of the family, particularly in this case when within easy reach of the dwelling.

Screens ought to be placed in all the windows and doors before flies and other insects make their appearance.

Spraying slop pails, garbage cans or ponds with kerosene is said to destroy the larva of both flies and mosquitoes.

Perfect cleanliness in the kitchen, the free use of borax and ammonia in washing floors, tables and sinks will go a long way in preventing trouble from flies.

ICED TEA WITH FINE FLAVOR Addition of Jasmine or Orange Blossoms Makes a Most Delicious Summer Beverage.

If you want tea with a delicious flavor, try the following experiment: Get half a pound of very fine tea and add to it a dozen jasmine or orange blossoms. Put this mixture into a perfectly tight jar away from the light and do not open for a month. If you cannot get the orange blossoms or jasmine, purchase some orange flower water and soak your tea in enough of this water to cover it. In a few hours it will be ready to use.

To make the tea have the water hot, pour it over the tea and allow to stand at least twelve hours. Tea made in this way has a beautiful flavor and a delicious perfume, that can be obtained in no other way. Try combining it with orange sherbet. There is no way of preparing iced tea that can compare with this. After sweetening, and when you are ready to serve it, place the sherbet in a bowl, pour the cold tea over it, and bring them to the table together.

AT 102, HE IS FOUND BY DAUGHTER

Long Search Ends When Picture Traces Him.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 4.—The publication of a newspaper "story" about the search of a daughter for her father, whom she had not seen since 1883, and of a portrait of the man sought for ended a journey of 3000 miles by the daughter of Joseph Kauffman.

At the age of 102 years, Kauffman was in the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, in Wilmington, where the daughter, Mrs. Mary Zuendel, found him.

A woman living on a farm south of Wilmington saw the picture and recognized it as that of a man she had formerly worked for. Mrs. Zuendel, being told, went to the home, and father and daughter immediately recognized each other.

Kauffman, who was born in Schlechtstadt, Germany, in 1811, left his home there in 1833 and married, returning to his native land at the outbreak of the Civil War. Later family troubles caused him to leave home again. He lost track of his four children and thought they had forgotten him until his daughter appeared.

Despite the fact that his daughter wants him to return to his native land Kauffman will remain in the home. "It is home to me now," he told his daughter.

MEDALS NOT A PASSPORT Man Who Won Six Fighting For the Union Held Up as Alien.

New York, Aug. 4.—William Gurnett, seventy-two years old, who had fought in the Union army throughout the Civil War, was wounded at Gettysburg, won six medals and draws a pension of $25 a month, decided two months ago to visit his old home in Tralee, County Kerry, Ireland.

Gurnett went and returned on the Baltic. With his military bearing, his six medals pinned across his breast, his white moustache and his stick he tried to walk ashore from the Baltic, insisting that he was an American citizen.

"You don't land without your citizenship papers," said an immigration officer, "and if you can't produce them you go to Ellis Island."

"You need not send me to Ellis Island," said Gurnett, slapping his medals. "Why, I won those fighting for the United States before you were born. You shall not send me to Ellis Island. I am more of an American citizen than you are."

But the veteran was obliged to go aboard the barge which was about to cast off for Ellis Island. Then a landing agent from the White Star office appeared with the precious naturalization papers.

Five Girls on Visit to Ireland Drown. London, Aug. 4.—Five girls, who returned recently to Ireland from the United States to visit relatives, were drowned at Strand Hall, near Sligo. They were Lizzie Ford, Margaret Frazer, Lizzie Murtagh, Mary Ann Murtagh and Lizzie McNulty. The girls were bathing, when Lizzie Ford, who was a good swimmer, dared the others to go further out into the water. A strong current was running at the time and all were carried away.

GERARD IS SICK OF EMBASSY JOB

Says Country Should Spend More to Maintain Them.

ITS PENURY IS RIDICULED

Representative to Kaiser's Court Will Have Bill Presented in Congress to Compel Americans Residing Abroad Help Pay For Upkeep.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Justice James W. Gerard, the new ambassador to Germany, is so disappointed at the state of the American diplomatic service, due, he says, to the entirely inadequate salaries paid to the envoys, that he intends to have a bill introduced in congress providing that Americans residing abroad should be forced to contribute to the upkeep of the embassies and legations by paying a fee of $10 for registration after they have lived a year in a foreign country.

After looking over the field and failing to find a suitable house for the embassy, realizing that he would have to dip into his own pockets, to establish an embassy on the semblance of those of a third rate power, Justice Gerard said he was discouraged and disappointed and questioned his own wisdom in having accepted the post.

He frankly announced that he was going to play the diplomatic game as nearly as possible like the representatives of other powers, as it is expected to be played in Berlin, and not as many in America, unfamiliar with the situation, believe that it ought to be played.

"Yes," he said, "I shall even wear the diplomatic uniform. It's a rule of the court, and I'm not going to commence by offending the prejudices of the people I am sent to, although my legs are not built for knee breeches and silk stockings. It is all very well to talk about democracy at home, but we can't impose our views upon people who don't understand them. To try to do so simply belittles our country and makes ourselves ridiculous."

"An ambassador is supposed to get things for his country and to do things for his people and promote friendly relations. He can't do this if he is looked on as a fool or if the United States maintains a representation on the scale of a third rate power."

In reply to a question as to what he thought an ambassador representing the United States as it should be represented would be obliged to spend, Justice Gerard said:

"Well, one American ambassador told me he spent $128,000 in less than the year he has been at the post."

The new envoy said the embassy in Berlin is too small and most of it is taken up by offices. He couldn't invite his mother-in-law, and said he thought President Wilson must have had the size of the embassy in mind when he selected a childless ambassador, who, nevertheless, might want to adopt a child.

The bill will provide that Americans over the age of eighteen when they go to a foreign country must register within eight days after the end of the first year spent abroad, fill out a registration certificate and pay a fee of $10, the embassies to retain the fees up to $50,000, and the surplus to be sent to the state department for the maintenance of other embassies and legations. Failure to comply with the provisions of the bill would imply abandonment of American citizenship.

Justice Gerard believes this will also serve to keep a check on Americans who might go abroad to escape paying income tax.

TWO DEAD IN SUICIDE PACT Bodies of Man and Woman Found in Park Near New York.

New York, Aug. 4.—Dwellers near McComb's Dam park were awakened during the night by hearing three pistol shots.

The listeners turned over and slept again. But daylight revealed to John Gearing, a park employee, a man and a woman lying dead side by side in the shade of a clump of shrubbery.

The man had shot the woman through the heart and the head and then had killed himself. Their names and motive had been written by the woman in this note, found in her companion's coat:

"August 3.—To whom it may concern: This is to certify that we both have agreed to die together. We have sinned, but we loved each other. Sooner than part we die together. Our wish is that our bodies will not be parted in death. Ellen Sidney, Harry G. Elliott."

Pays Other's Taxes, Own Lot Seized. York, Pa., Aug. 4.—As the result of an assessment tangle, E. E. Weltzel has for years been paying taxes upon the property of William Chronister, in the East End. Meanwhile the city treasurer sold Weltzel's property for unpaid taxes, incorrectly assessed in the name of W. A. Keyworth.

Victim of Kindness to Horse. Doylestown, Pa., Aug. 4.—Reaching over the dashboard of his wagon to chase a fly from his horse, Samuel Trauch, aged seventy-five years, of Kintnersville, was thrown to the ground by the horse's sudden start and so badly trampled that he died several hours after the accident.

Hanged Himself With Silk Cord. Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Louis Warlick, an unemployed waiter, ended his life here by hanging himself with a silk cord. So unique was the man's method of ending his life that the coroner's detective who investigated the case reported that although the man was living in want, he had saved this silk noose from one of the draperies of a fashionable hotel where he was previously employed before he went on strike several months ago.

Ball's Blow Kills at First. Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 4.—Charles Deets, aged twenty-two years, while playing base ball, was struck over the heart with a pitched ball. He ran to first base, but as soon as he reached it he bag he dropped dead.

CANADIANS RESIGN OVER FLAG ISSUE

Quit When One is Dismissed For Insult to U. S. Flag.

Saskatoon, Sask., Aug. 4.—As the result of the flag incident here last Friday in which the American flag was trampled in the dust by Canadian militia, all officers of the One Hundred and Sixth Fusiliers have resigned.

Their action comes directly as the result of the dismissal from the regiment of Lieutenant Atkinson, leader of the bugle band, who broke ranks to snatch the flag from the hands of a young American woman. The officers said they will take the case before the imperial parliament at London.

According to Lieutenant Atkinson, he deliberately was slapped in the face with the flag by the young woman.

"The woman slapped me in the face no less than three times before I took any notice of it," he said. "I then broke ranks and threw the flag on the ground. I regarded the action as a deliberate insult to the uniform of the Fusiliers and I would do the same thing over again if the occasion took place."

TAKEN AS BIG WIRE TAPPER New York Sleuth Catches Long-Sought Man in Maryland.

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 4.—A man said to be a noted "wire tapper," one of a gang of eleven whom the New York police have been trying to round up for the past two years, was arrested here by Richard M. McKenna, a New York headquarters detective.

He is said to be J. A. Dowling, although known in Salisbury as J. D. Mowry, and Detective McKenna left for New York with his prisoner.

Dowling, or Mowry, came to Salisbury about three months ago. He then bought a farm about five miles out of the town and was building a new house there.

Dowling and three men now awaiting trial at New York are alleged to have made the acquaintance of Kirby C. Sidbury, a lawyer, and Dr. J. P. Powell, a dentist, in Wilmington, in May, 1912, and inducing them to go to New York to have defrauded Sidbury out of $22,000 and Powell of $3000 through wagers made on horse races.

Hanged Himself With Silk Cord. Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Louis Warlick, an unemployed waiter, ended his life here by hanging himself with a silk cord. So unique was the man's method of ending his life that the coroner's detective who investigated the case reported that although the man was living in want, he had saved this silk noose from one of the draperies of a fashionable hotel where he was previously employed before he went on strike several months ago.

Ball's Blow Kills at First. Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 4.—Charles Deets, aged twenty-two years, while playing base ball, was struck over the heart with a pitched ball. He ran to first base, but as soon as he reached it he bag he dropped dead.

BABY TALK UNIVERSAL

TRAVELER SAYS HE ENCOUNTERED IT ALL OVER.

Also He Asks, Why Not? Since a Baby is a Baby and a Mother a Mother No Matter to What Race They Belong.

"One of the things that struck me as being very peculiar when I first began to get acquainted with Oriental languages was the baby talk mothers used to their children," said a man who has lived for many years in the far east.

"Of course, being a family man, I know all about baby talk in my own tongue—indeed, I may say that I had taken a post-graduate course in the jargon myself—but somehow it had never occurred to me that people speaking another language had coined a similar fond nonsense for the nursery, and the discovery that baby talk is limited to no particular race or clime gave me quite a shock."

"Why, I nearly had a spasm the first day I heard a Chinese mother croon the equivalent for 'muzzer's little pet,' and when I got so I could understand the translation of 'Didums little toofins hurt um?' I was so astonished that I had to lay off from office work for a whole day to recuperate."

"Of course, when you figure the thing out, you find that there is no reason why baby talk should not prevail the world over. A baby is a baby and a mother is a mother, no matter where you find them, and it is only natural that the words addressed to a youngster should assume a diminutive form. Still, in spite of that common-sense way of looking at it, I never got quite used to Oriental gibberish, and to this day, when I hear Chinese parents talk about 'Bess um's little heart' and 'Was ums duss ee seestee little sing?' in their own jargon, I want to go behind the door and snigger, for it really does sound funny."

"It's a queer thing, any way, this baby talk. I know an artist who has spent the past 20 years knocking about over the globe, camping right down in the homes of 'the people' for local color. He has a smattering of two score of languages, and he says that, no matter where he is or how tight a fix he may be in, the minute he hears a word of baby talk he feels safe."

"People to whom baby talk comes natural have a very comfortable way with them. They make their meaning known with marvelous quickness. A person may be almost ignorant of a language, but just let some woman start up a string of infantile endearments and the stranger will declare straight off, 'That's baby talk, all right,' even though he doesn't understand a word that is spoken."

"I believe if I were in the wilds of Africa and heard anybody coo 'Goorely, goorely, goo,' I'd say, 'That means 'Ze little, bittle lamb' and settle down for a good night's rest.'"

Swiss Sauce.

Put a teaspoonful of cream into a saucepan and when it boils mix with it one wineglassful of sherry that has been thickened with a teaspoonful of flour. Sweeten to taste with sugar, grate in a little nutmeg and boil for fifteen minutes. The sauce is then ready.

Housekeeper's Hands.

Mutton tallow with a little sulphur added is healing and whitening. When the hard work of the day is done, rub well into the skin. Keep a supply of Indian meal near your soap dish. Every time you wash your hands rub the meal thickly on them after soaping.

When Baking Potatoes.

When making baked potatoes, you will find it very good to nip the ends off and grease them before placing in the oven. When finished, you can take them out, gently break apart without spilling their appearance and serve at once.

No Relief.

The cynical person was standing in front of a part of an exhibition of local art talent labeled "Art Objects." "Well, I suppose art does object, and I can't blame her, but there doesn't seem to be any help for it," he finally said.

Even Worse Grievance.

"Your worship," said the prisoner, "you don't know how heartrending it is to have a wife who can cook but won't do it." "No," said his honor, and then added, feelingly: "Thank goodness, man, you haven't one that can't cook and will do it."

Too Much Responsibility.

A lady remarked to her nephew, aged seven: "Tommy, you should try and be a better boy. You are our only child and we expect you to be good," and he replied: "It is tough on me to be good for a lot of brothers and sisters I haven't got!"

There will be dancing afternoon and evening. Refreshments and meals will be sold, day and evening, and a good time is in store for all who attend.

Everybody invited.

Difference In Failures.

A Denver capitalist said bitterly, apropos of a dishonest liquidation wherein he had been caught: "There are pessimists who say that marriage is a failure; but between a marriage and a failure there's this difference: In a marriage the wife takes the husband's name, while in a failure the husband takes the wife's name."

Feared He Had Lost Papa.

A minister was called from the dinner table to marry a couple. The youngest child, a boy of four or five years old, heard his mother say that the father had gone to marry somebody. After a brief silence the boy looked up, and with a quivering lip asked, "Won't he be our papa any more?"—Christian Register.

POULTRY FACTS

REARING GOSLINGS NOT HARD

Long Brooding Is Unnecessary and an Ordinary Hen Coop Will Accommodate Three or Four.

(By W. ROBINSON.)
I have always used large, full feathered hens for hatchlings, only allowing the geese to sit on the last eggs of the season. A good broody hen will steadily sit the 30 days occupied in the incubation of these eggs.

If she be given no more than four eggs and they are set in an earth nest and turned once daily they should in almost every case produce vigorous goslings if the parent birds are healthy and well matured.

Some people find a difficulty during the early days of raising in the tendency of the birds to fall upon their backs and an inability to right themselves without assistance, necessitating combined watchfulness or loss.

This, however, is a nuisance that may be avoided by the use of the eggs of mature, sound stock only, the weakness being absent in the progeny of old birds in good breeding condition.

The actual rearing presents no difficulties to one qualified in poultry raising. Long brooding is unnecessary and an ordinary hen coop is sufficient to accommodate three or four goslings and a hen as long as it is necessary to leave the latter in charge, but during the first days the gosling's run, which should be on short grass, should be limited.

The best diet is a simple one and for the first few days I have found nothing better than stale bread well soaked and squeezed moderately dry and mixed with a liberal allowance of dandelion leaves, well chopped and free from stringy pieces. Biscuit meal may be used instead of the stale bread but it is more expensive and the results are no better.

By the middle of the first week ground oats should take the place of the bread, mixed with a sufficient quantity of grit to make the mixture crumbly, the dandelions being combined.

The green food may be gradually reduced and finally abandoned when the young birds are grazing freely. They should commence grazing at about a week old.

Upon a good grazing ground and with a sufficient supply of soft food mixture, of which ground oats should be the staple ingredient, goslings will progress rapidly.

BROODER FOR SMALL CHICKS

Large Barrel Cut in Half as Shown in Illustration Will Be Found Convenient.

A very simple brooder can be constructed by cutting a sugar barrel in half and using one part in the manner described. Line the inside of the half barrel with paper and then cover this with old flannel cloth. Make a cover for the top and line it in the same manner. At the bottom cut a hole in the edge, about four inches deep and four inches wide, and provide a cover or door. The inside is kept warm by filling a jug with boiling water and setting it within, changing the water both morning and night. When the temperature outside is ten degrees the interior can be kept at 90 or 100 degrees, but the jug must be refilled with boiling water at least twice a day.—Popular Mechanics.

Color.

Color is largely a matter of breed. The color character in eggs has no relation whatsoever to their food value. An egg with a white shell does not differ in composition from one with a brown shell. Eggs of the Mediterranean breeds are white, while those of the Asiatic breeds are brown. In general the eggs of the American breeds are also brown, but are rarely as uniform in color as the other two classes. Uniformity in color regardless of whether eggs are white or brown should be sought for by the poultryman. A good appearance to a crate of eggs is procured only when uniformity in size, shape and color is present.
